

Infrastructure-related factors that have an influence on the decision to invest include the efficiency and cost of utilities, transportation, ports, post and telecommunications, and municipal services. Which are the most important?

Countries have found that the cost and efficiency of electricity supply are among the most negative aspects, while improvements in telecommunications (in particular the internet, and mobile telephony) are among the most positive.

Downloads

An updated synthesis publication will be made available shortly via this website. In the meantime, earlier synthesis and country analysis may be obtained on the private capital flows publications page.