

A joint World Bank / DRI mission visited Khartoum, Sudan during the month of January, 2015. The objective of the mission was to develop a reform plan on debt management, and its recommendations were structured around three main areas: institutional framework, developing the domestic market, and operational risk. The mission prepared a project that will be submitted for peer review and then to the Sudanese authorities for comments. It is anticipated that the final report will be completed by March 2015.
