

The sustainability of public finances and borrowing by decentralised government entities such as provinces, regions and municipalities is becoming an issue of more importance to developing countries. To assist countries analyse these issues, the HIPC CBP has developed a methodology which is set out in its publication, Public Finance Sustainability in Subnational Governments CEMLA . This publication was written by based on a major pilot programme in Bolivia.