

A key forum for the delivery of bilateral debt relief from (mainly OECD) governments is the Paris Club

. While the Paris Club has provided significant debt relief under the HIPC initiative, non-HIPC low income and middle income countries have also received relief, albeit often on less favourable terms, or debt restructurings to help them deal with balance of payments problems.

As part of its work with developing countries, DFI has compiled information on Paris Club debt relief provided under HIPC, including information on the debt conversions options
