

Civil society plays a vital role in holding governments, multilateral organisations and the private sector to account for delivering an end to poverty and sharp reductions in inequality. They must themselves be accountable for the degree to which they deliver these results. DFI works in close partnership with many major global CSOs such as Action Aid , EURODAD , the Global Campaign for Education , the International Budget Partnership , Oxfam, Save the Children , the Sustainable Development Solutions Network, and Water Aid , as well as parliaments via the IPU and Commonwealth Parliamentary Association to enhance their supervisory role, and Trade Unions via the ITUC.